FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Debra Bloomfield

Four Corners Project

Richard Levy Gallery is pleased present the Four Corners Project an exhibition of photographs by California artist, Debra Bloomfield.

For over a decade, Debra Bloomfield has photographed landscapes and church interiors throughout the four corners area. Big beautiful skies and desolate spaces will adorn the walls of the Richard Levy Gallery this month offering us a moment to contemplate. This exquisite collection invites the powerful chord of reflection, as Debra Bloomfield travels off the beaten path to discover her own towering cathedrals, those composed of nature's own magnificence. Her gift to depict spaces, (natural and artificial), that give her a place to feel, welcomes the viewer to do the same. Viewing her large scale landscapes, stimulates the senses. The last light of evening, the first light of the day, the caress of the whispery wind, the wide open spaces, the sweet smells of the desert, the silence to hear yourself, and the absence of anything man made create an Eden of sorts, a sacred space to ponder. One simultaneously feels a sense of timelessness, as if time has stopped, and a sense of awe is summoned. Debra Bloomfield brilliantly captures and invokes, in each piece, the essence which one feels when encountering a magical moment in the land of enchantment.

Debra Bloomfield is a photographer and educator at the San Francisco Art Institute. Her work is featured in many private and public collections around the world, including the San Francisco Museum of Art, the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston, the Museum of Fine Arts in Santa Fe, the Oakland Museum, and the Seattle Art Museum. In June, Debra Bloomfield hosts a two week workshop, photographing the four corners area with her students.
